1st United Door Technologies Introduces New Garage Door Product Line
The Universal Series: Built to Last. Built for Strength

Tempe, AZ, July 7, 2009 — On the dawn of announcing the launch of its new Resurrection Series, 1st United Door Technologies introduces yet another new series of cost-effective steel garage doors manufactured for strength and longevity. The Universal Series offers three models of 24 and 25 gauge steel garage doors. These are cost effective garage doors produced with exceptional quality and workmanship, using only the finest manufacturing components.

What makes the Universal Series so appealing from other garage doors?

The cost effective Model 225 offers exceptional value. The exterior of the door is embossed with a woodgrain texture finish accented by an elegant raised panel design. The door is composed of 25 gauge hot dipped galvanized steel with baked-on polyester paint and reinforced for strength and safety.

For strength and longevity, the Model 224 utilizes heavy 24-gauge steel without sacrificing beauty. This 24 gauge door is embossed with a woodgrain texture finish and accented by an elegant raised panel design. The doors are available with baked-on polyester paint in white, almond, sandstone and brown.

The Model 625 is a thermally efficient steel front and steel backed “sandwich style” door. Formed with a unique sculpted raised panel the Model 625 is embossed with a natural wood grain texture. The core is CFC free Polystyrene insulation with a 25 gauge steel back skin for thermal efficiency. The Model 625 door will add great value and beauty to any home.

1st United Door Technologies, founded in 2000, owns and operates its main offices and manufacturing facility in Tempe, Arizona and has four distribution centers located throughout the Southern California region.
